A New Trick of Swindlers. A few days since a wealthy lady was driving in Milton, Mass., in her carriage, when her coachman discoverd a tramp by the roadside apparently in a state of great exhaustion, with his lips flecked with bloody froth. The kindhearted lady at once descended from her carriage and offered any assistance in her power to the man. He stated that he was on his way to see his wife and children; that he was a consumptive, and was then suffering from a hemorrhage. The lady offered him medical .treatment and shelter, but he refused, saying he must get on to see his family before he died. She then gave him money to help him on his way and left him. A day or two afterwards, while conversing with friends, she was informed that they had on different occasions met the same man, apparently suffering the same way she had described to them, and that they had assisted him with money, etc. The "hemorrhage trick," it appears, is the latest scheme of swindling that has been devised. The plan of the swindler is to get out upon the road and when a carriage which denotes its occupants to be persons of wealth approaches, he throws no one was injured. The engine-room is a himself down on the roadside and bursts a little sack containing a red fluid in his mouth, and then twists and squirms about as if in great

The runaways are supposed to be in Baltimore.

A Double Suicide.

Dr. J. H. Nonamaker and his wife were found dead in bed on the 5th inst., at Salida, Colo., with bullet holes in their temples. From letters left by them it seems that both had grown discouraged over their inability to get friends to indorse a note for $400, and had agreed to commit suicide together. The evening of the 5th, at 12 o'clock, was the time agreed upon to put their resolution into practice. They retired with pistols, and when the clock tolled the hour of midnight each fired, dying instantly. As Nonamaker was jealous and brutal the general belief is that he killed his wife during a jealous fit, wrote the letter, and then committed suicide.

The Law's Delay.

Capt. Geo. W. Cheves, an editor, who shot and killed Capt. F. H. Pickett, a lawyer, at Dawson, Ga., one year ago, died in jail at Atlanta, Thursday last, where he was held awaiting a decision as to his sanity. His friends claim that he was hopelessly insane. An Old Maid Poisoned.

Several years ago Miss Ann Freeborn, an elderly maiden lady, who for a long time previously had kept a boarding-school at Morrisania, N. Y., moved to Fox Lake, Wis. She brought with her $25,000 in cash, which she deposited in a bank, and she willed her prop-erty, amounting to about $50,000, to near blood relatives. She had with her a young girl, whose parentage is enshrouded in mystery. Some 20 years ago a distinguished-looking gentleman came to Miss Freeborn's residence and left a child with her, for whose maintenance he paid some money in advance. Later on payments ceased, and Miss Freeborn began inquiries and discovered the man who had brought the child, in the person of J. T. Johnson, a wealthy vessel owner in Buffalo. He had married and was mortified at being found out. dearly, and then Miss Freeborn took the waif F. A. Killops, a prominent lawyer in Dodge County, and soon after persuaded Miss Freeborn to change her will and disinherit her relatives. This created ill-feeling, and Mrs. Mary True, a wealthy widow and Quakeress of Baltimore, came West to fight her claims. She and the other dissatisfied members of the family claimed that Miss Freeborn had been unduly influenced by the waif, now Mrs. Killops, and that at the time of changing the will the old spinster had been of unsound mind.

Last Thursday Miss Freeborn died suddenly, and a post-mortem examination revealed the fact that death was the result of poisoning. A second investigation was ordered on the following day, when it was found that the lady had been opened after the first examination, the stomach removed and thoroughly cleansed with a sponge. The corpse was then removed from Mrs. Killops's house. In the meantime suspicion rests on Mrs. Killops, who was the only one who could gain through the death of Miss Freeborn. She is being guarded now at her house, while the stomach has been sent to Chicago for analysis. A prominent lady of Buffalo is mentioned as the mother of Mrs.

Gen. McClellan's Romance.

[Cleveland Leader.] A very interesting story was told about a year ago in regard to McClellan's first meeting with his wife. He married her in 1860, and the relations of the two during the past quarter of a century have been the happiest. Mrs. McClellan accompanied her husband everywhere and was a helpmeet in the true sense of the word. She was very proud of her husband and was very sensitive to any ridicule of him. He met her in a church in Baltimore in 1860, one cold Sunday morning. He was then traveling through the United States on a health tour, and had reached Baltimore Saturday night. The next morning he left the hotel and went to the front and seated him in a pew which was already occupied by a very handsome young lady. The sermon was prosy and Mr. McClellan devoted himself to casting sly glances to his seatmate. He concluded that she was fair. As West Point. McClellan at once called upon gan to pay her attentions, and found upon acquaintance that she improved. His love was reciprocated. They were engaged, and in May, 1860, they were married.

ordinary case, Upon one of the expeditions to the North Pole a curious discovery was made. The sailors were required to take frequent exercise to guard against disease. One of the men became noted for his remarkable health and yigor; upon inquiring the cause, he said he received from an old Esquimau a box of medicine which had been left by some former explorer. This medicine had kept him in good health under many trying circumstances. Looking good health under many trying circumstances. Looking closely at the box, the name "Gracfenberg Pills" was Agents Wanted. "THE NEW AGRICULTURE," BY HON. A. N. COLE.

FARMERS AND MARKET GARDENERS.

FULLY ILLUSTRATED. Handsomely bound in cloth and gold. Price $2.00.

After many years of investigation into the laws governing the movements of the waters upon and beneath the soil. Mr. Cole has discovered a system of subsurface drainage and irrigation, by which the most wonderful results have been produced. He aptly calls it "The New Agriculture." Concisely stated, Mr. Cole's system has the following advantages as compared with the methods of agriculture now in general use: Handsomely bound in cloth and gold. Price $2.00. 1st. Cerial Crops are increased more than fourfold.

You can ascertain if your invention is patentable by sending to GEORGE E. LEMON, of Washington, D. he will make an examination and inform you as to whether, in his opinion, your invention is new and patentable, and if it is advisable to proceed with the case. For this information and examination no charge is made. If you desire a full report and copies of previous patents (if there are any) which appear to be similar to your invention, you should have made a Special Examination, the charge for said examination being $5. An inventor should always take advantage of this special examination before going to the expense of having a model made and filing formal application papers in the U.S. Patent Office. WHAT WILL A PATENT COST? If, after a special examination, you are advised that If, after a special examination, you are advised that your invention is patentable, send the estimated cost of the drawings and $15 to pay the first Government fee. The application will then be prepared, filed and prosecuted without further expense to the applicant until the Patent Office Examiner admits the patentability of the invention or the case is officially allowed. After the application has been declared to be patentable the attorney's fee of $25 is due, but before the patent can issue a second Government fee of $29 must be paid, thus making the total cost of patent in ordinary cases (exclusive of drawings) $65.

A special examination and report will cost $5, which amount is applied as part of attorney's fee should an application for patent be proceeded with within 60 days from date of special report.

The attorney's fee is only contingent in cases where a special examination has first been made and a favorable report rendered.

Thus you know beforehand whether you are going to secure a patent or not, and no attorney's fee is charged unless a patent is obtained. An attorney whose fee depends on his success in obtaining a patent will not advise you that your invention is patentable unless it really is, so far as his best judgment can aid in determining the question; hence you can rely on the advice given after a special examination. Design Patents and the Registration of Labels, Trade-Marks and Reissues secured. Caveats prepared and filed. Applications in revivor of Rejected, Abandoned or Forfeited Cases revivor of Rejected, Abandoned or Forfeited Cases made. Very often valuable inventions are saved in these classes of cases. If you have undertaken to secure your own patent and failed, a skillful handling of the case may lead to success. Send me a written request, addressed to the Commissioner of Patents, that he recognize George E. Lemon, of Washington, D. C., as your attorney in the case, giving the title of the invention and about the date of filing your application. An examination and report will cost you nothing.
